WOW!

Look for even more color in the Historic Warehouse District this summer. WOW! in the Warehouse District is a green space project to accelerate downtown development. At least 100 hanging flower baskets will be perking up the district's vintage light posts, along with sidewalk planters and pocket parks. The program was created through a generous grant from the Anthem Foundation, which has also encouraged other companies to provide support to allow WOW! to continue long-term. The installation of 50 flower baskets will take place this month. For more information about the program, visit www.wowinwarehouse.com.

MOVING? TIPS TO AVOID TRAUMA

Many families relocate during the summer to avoid disrupting children during the busy school year. Whether you're moving across the country or just to the other side of town, heed the advice of former Cleveland resident Renee Raab Whitcombe, author of Look Who's Moving to a New Home. Whitcombe—who recently relocated her family to California—offers the following tips.

- Present the move in a positive light. Explain the circumstances of the move and stress the good things.
- Listen. Be sensitive to children's fears, sadness or confusion.
- Explain the timing and moving process. Things are clearer when you provide details about packing, movers and travel.
- Involve your child in the moving process. Let your child help pack his or her belongings.
- Avoid moving-day meltdown. Depending on your child's emotional threshold for the moving process, it might be best to plan on a babysitter for the day.
- Visit and research the new neighborhood. Find out as much information as possible, and share it with your child.
- Stay in touch with friends and neighbors. Moving away doesn't mean losing special friends.
- Be prepared. Moodiness and acting out are natural signs of stress and adjustment.
- Transfer routines. Bring traditions with you to your new home.
- Plug into the new neighborhood. Seek out new friends, sign up for activities and visit the new school.
